2013 Chablis “Mont de Milieu”: This is presently displaying plenty of mineral reduction notes but I suspect that with a few years of bottle age the aromas will turn exotic as this is clearly quite ripe. Interestingly there is a touch of wood in evidence on the palate but not on the nose as the broad-shouldered flavors display good power and punch that carries over to the attractively detailed, lengthy and well-balanced finish. This delicious effort should drink well early if desired. (90-92)/2020+
