Just as with the regular cuvée, we tasted several different lots and then the prospective blend. One standout was the 2016 Chateauneuf du Pape Cuvee Etienne Gonnet, a blend of Grenache and Cunoise from La Crau. Tasted from a 600-liter demi-muid, it showed tremendous perfume and lush fruit. The blend, of which approximately 1,250 cases will be produced, features black cherries and tons of spice, plenty of body and chocolaty notes on the long, dusty finish. (JC)
